APPLETON'S AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA

New Revised Edition.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type and illustrated with Several Thousand Engravings and Maps

The work originally published under the title of The New American Cyclopædia has completed in 1863, and in the time that has since elapsed the events of history have occurred, investing national changes of position and character, and the civil war of the country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily taken its place in the annals of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to the permanent literature of the world have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the consequent changes in the relations of the civil power to the people, have produced many, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one desires to know particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which no details are as yet accessible. In the investigations of transient publications of the day, but which possess now or later value in connection with subjects of permanent interest, the preparation of a present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information contained in the former editions to the present time, and to make the work a complete and accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, the events of the day, the progress and results of the latest inventions in the principal arts, as well as to give a statistical and critical record of the progress of political and industrial events.

No work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor and study, but essentially remodelled and largely written anew, the whole has been brought up to a uniform standard of literary excellence.

None of the original features of the plan have been changed, but every part has been added to and improved, making in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as the previous work, but with the additional literary experience, and with much improvements in its composition, as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added for the purpose of picturesque effect, but to give greater certainty and force to the explanations of the text. They consist of numerous full and accurate maps of recently explored regions, of battle-fields, of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable objects of scenery, architecture, and art in all parts of the world, including many rare and costly specimens. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, they will be found to possess a high artistic excellence. The cost of the execution of these maps and engravings will be very large, exceeding that of any similar work in this country or in Europe.

The work will be issued in 16 volumes octavo, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with numerous colored Lithographic Maps, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

Price and Style of Binding.

In Extra Cloth, per vol.,	$ 5 00

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs.

No. 76 State Street, opposite Kilby Street, Boston.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States, and in all the British Colonies, and other Foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, assignments, and all papers for Patents executed on reasonable terms, with dispatch. Examinations made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters connected with the claims of inventors. Any patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved Inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,

Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of giving the application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

HERMAN HERMAN BEDELL,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, both in this country and in Europe. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him for procuring their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

Per order of City Committee
HERMON BARTLETT, Chairman
Bangor, Aug 10th, 1874

A recapitulation of the appropriations made at the last three sessions of Congress, which has just been prepared at the Treasury Department by C. F. Conant, Assistant Secretary, exhibits, in a very favorable aspect, the economy practiced at the last session of Congress. Taking into consideration the fact that the appropriations have largely increased over former years by the act of June 12 1870, the appropriations at the last session were less than those made at any preceding session since 1861. The act referred to limits the appropriations made especially for any fiscal year to the year for which they were made. Before the enactment of this law the balances of unexpended appropriations were carried over to the account of the same kind, and made available in the next succeeding fiscal year. They were as much an appropriation for any special purpose as the special appropriations nominally for that purpose. In making the estimate for appropriations, these balances were deducted from them. In the same law there is another provision that makes it unlawful for any department or officer of the government to expend in any one fiscal year any sum in excess of the amount appropriated by law for the year. This prohibition has had the effect of causing the departments to make large estimates in order that there may be greater appropriations to cover what deficiences.

The estimates are estimates, of course made and differ in the amount of the actual expenditures, but they greatly swell the aggregate. It is frequently been said to the House of the first session of the Forty third Congress, that not a bill was passed, or a dollar appropriated, for any job. Those figures show the successful result of the watchful economy of the Republican majority.

The escape of Marshal Bazaine from the island of Ste. Marguerite is the all absorbing topic in Paris just now. It is said the plan for his escape was the work of his wife and it was arranged six weeks ago. It is said that the guard given his parole not to leave the island as precautions were consequently relaxed. The Marshal refused at first to fly but finally owing to his failure to obtain some modification of his sentence, yielded. He sailed from the island in the steamer Le Baron Beaust belonging to an English company and was accompanied by his wife and brother. It is reported that he landed at San Remo, an Hravelled via Turin to Basle, whence he took a train to Brussels, arriving at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The annual session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science opened yesterday at Hartford, Conn. Dr. J. Leconte of Philadelphia, the distinguished entomologist, presides and Dr. A. C. Hamlin of this city, is Secretary. The session promises to be one of unusual interest, and the citizens of Hartford are prepared to give the members a hearty reception. There will be very pleasant excursions to the neighborhood, social receptions, and a general good time, independent of the proper work of the meeting.

LETTER FROM AUGUSTA

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION

AUGUSTA, Aug. 12, 1874

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

The Republican County Convention for Kennebec met in Granite Hall, in this city, at half-past one o'clock this afternoon. Hon. Joseph A. Sanborn, of Hallowell, called the Convention to order, and Hon. C. A. Wing, of Winthrop, was chosen Chairman, and F. O. Brainard, of China, Secretary.

A committee on credentials was appointed, who subsequently reported 125 delegates present.

On motion of George E. Minot, of Belgrade, Hon. Edmund F. Webb, of Waterville, was nominated as a candidate for Senator by acclamation.

The ballot for a second candidate for Senator resulted as follows.

Whole number of votes,	125
Necessary for a choice,	63
Moses S. Mayhew has	109
James Nash,	4
John Webb,	7
James Fitzner,	4
George H. Andrews,	1

Prior to the ballot the name of Hon. Peter F. Sanborn, of Hallowell, was withdrawn as a candidate for Senator.

Hon. Asbury Young, the present incumbent, withdrew his name as a candidate for County Commissioner, and the ballot for a candidate for County Commissioner resulted as follows

Whole number of votes,	124
Necessary for a choice	63
D. C. Palmer has	29
Reuben S. Neal,	58
George H. Andrews,	36
William H. Libby,	1

There was no choice, and a second ballot was taken, which resulted as follows.

Whole number of votes,	119
Necessary for a choice,	60
Reuben S. Neal has	89
Scattering,	30

whereupon Mr. Neal was declared the unanimous nominee of the Convention.

The committee to receive, sort and count votes for Sheriff, reported as follows

Whole number of votes,	116
Necessary for a choice,	59
William H. Libby, of Augusta, had	113
Joseph Percival,	3

and William H. Libby was declared the nominee.

Hon. William M. Stratton was nominated for Clerk of Courts, and Hon. Alanson Starks was nominated for County Treasurer, by acclamation.

The following County Committee was appointed

John W. Chase, of Augusta,
George E. Minot, of Belgrade,
John F. Lamb, of Clinton,
Henry Woodward, of Winthrop,
Sullivan Holbreth, of Manchester.

The Convention, which was, perfectly harmonious throughout, then adjourned.

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL, which met yesterday, ceased their labors this forenoon, and adjourned until the 16th of September

IMPORTANT DECISION.

The Supreme Judicial Court has decided in favor of the State in the case of State vs. European & North American Railway Company, involving the title to some 280,000 acres of land. The Court has also decided in favor of the State in the cases against trespassers on said lands, except in the matter of sale of teams and supplies in 1872. The Court hold the seizure to be legal, but the law under which the seizure was made is declared unconstitutional. Several of the parties appeared before the Governor and Council desiring to compromise by paying for stumpage and the costs of court, and have the seized lumber returned to them or be compensated therefor.

CANDIDATES FOR STATE PRISON,

Warden Rice, of the State Prison, was in this city to-day, and took to Thomaston with him James Higgins, sentenced for four years for breaking and larceny, and John Stevens, for three years for larceny. Higgins was convicted the present term of Court in this county, and Stevens in March last. W.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

J. Proctor Knott is nominated as a Democratic candidate for Congress in the fourth Kentucky district.

The People's convention at Lafayette, Ind., Tuesday, nominated Archibald Johnson for Congress from the ninth district.

Anna Dickinson is writing the story of her life, and dozens of young fellows in various parts of the country are earnestly beseeching her to say nothing "about that engagement."

The Courier-Journal says the people of Delaware want to have a big mess for Governor, but we can't see how they possibly can, unless they get permission to run it in some other State.

The N. Y. Sun says:—"We are authorized to state that Gov. Fenton is acting in full concert with the Liberal Republicans of New York and has not in any manner of degree broken off his connection with them."

How many cards like Mr. Bowen's would burden the telegraph, if every bogus report of an "interview" should be denounced as a fraud! And to think that Mr. Bowen, a newspaper man, should take the trouble!

We shall soon have free banking, when any man can take his money and start a bank if he so desires. I think the national bank notes preferable as a medium of exchange to the treasury notes, because the latter are always at the mercy of the party in power, who can inflate or contract at pleasure, and thus disarrange business interests of the country at will.—Hugh McCulloch.

The Poland act applies to offenses against the United States only; libel is not an offense against the United States, and that's the end of the worsted. It has no more to do with libel than with the doctrines of Swedenborg; that is as plain as the nose on your face, and when the newspapers get ready to shut their mouths and open their eyes for an instant, the bulls-balloo will be ended.—Woodstock (Vt.) Post

The commission appointed to the charge of Kings County Lunatic Asylum, belonging in Brooklyn, upon investigating the institution, found that the grossest immoralities were practiced, and there was a total lack of discipline, morality and decency

Special Notices.

GRAND Temperance Mass Meeting

The friends of Temperance without regard to party, are invited to meet at City Hall on FRIDAY EVENING, August 14th, at 7½ P. M., to select a Committee to nominate three candidates for Representatives to the State Legislature, to be supported by the pledged friends of Temperance at the State election on Sept 14th, and to take such other measures as may be necessary to carry out the principles of the friends of Temperance in the campaign in this city. The Ladies are respectfully invited to attend.

The Winthrop

[illegible]

Simple and Durable in its Construction; As easily Managed as a Parlor Stove. Large Radiation; Entire Freedom from Coal and Dust; Does not heat the Cellar.

Manufactured by DIGHTON FURNACE CO.

In the construction of the Winthrop Hot Air Furnace it has been made a study to avoid the difficulties and annoyances too often found in Furnaces. Pure warm air, free from gas and dust, is the great desideratum sought. Without enlarging upon the important matter of cooking and ventilating houses, about which so much has been written of late, we desire to call your attention to the New Wrought Iron Winthrop Heater, as possessing the requisites for a healthful and economical apparatus.

The heater is an outgrowth of the Winthrop, is made of heavy cast iron; the pot lined with bricks, so that the current of cold air as it comes in from the base does not come in contact with the hot plates, destroying its vitality, but is delivered into the hot air chamber pure and healthful.

The heater is a self cleaning feature of the Winthrop is the ease with which the fire can be cleaned out. This has been a serious difficulty with most furnaces, but has been entirely overcome in the Winthrop. The accumulation of soot and ashes in the fire can be thoroughly removed in a few minutes. The Winthrop has been thoroughly tested, and we invite all in want of a superior heating apparatus to an examination of its merits.

—Potatoes sold for 60 and 70 cents in our market yesterday.

—The Ward lists for the September election are being prepared.

—Capt Jordan, whose leg was broken on Tuesday, was quite comfortable yesterday.

—The annual reunion and picnic of the Burr family will occur at Hermon Pond to-day

—The Ladies' Crusade will hold a prayer and business meeting at City Hall this afternoon

—Rev. B F Chase, formerly of this city, is very low of consumption at Diamond Hill, Rhode Island.

—The recent heavy rain washed large quantities of earth into the road from the sidewalk beyond Pearl street.

—The Catholic societies of Oldtown and Orono will, weather permitting, make an excursion to Fort Point to-day.

—Rain began to fall at half-past eleven last night, and the flashes of lightning which accompanied it were very sharp.

—The firm of Packhurst & Webb, trunk manufacturers, has been dissolved and the business will be carried on by the senior member of the firm.

—The editor of the Orego Rural, J. W Lane, Esq., has been invited to serve as a judge of neat stock, at the New York State Fair in September.

—The Committee of Twenty one will make their final report on the project of damming Pratt's Falls at a public meeting to be held in City Hall this evening —In reference to the sale of public lands, to take place shortly, the Governor and Council decide to sell the interest of the State in common, and let the purchaser bear the expense of locating.

—The night compositors of THE WHIG owe their thanks for a large and excellent water-melon to Mr William Langley, from whose stand, near Norombega market, it was sent by the proprietor.

—A lady applied to the Maine Central Railroad for a pass, on the ground that she formerly did Judge Rice's washing! This last attempt to professionally wring a pass from the corporation will be duly considered by the full Board of Directors.

—The concert given in Centre Park last evening was one of the very best of the season and was more largely attended than usual. The band was highly complimented in Portland for their excellent playing, and always stand ready to exchange their notes for greenbacks.

—Henry H Moore, who attempted suicide by shooting himself at a house on Salem court, Tuesday, passed a very uncomfortable night, and yesterday was in a very precarious condition. Last evening a physician was hastily summoned, and Moore was reported to be in a dying condition.

—Three hundred and fifty wild pigeons in cages came down from Dover and Foxcroft yesterday morning, and were sent on to Boston where they will be dressed for market, thus being sold in excellent condition. These birds are caught by thousands in the woods in the vicinity of the places named.

—A letter passed through this city yesterday with the following address: Mr. ——— Glanville N. B. P. M. please forrad, dew please dew in hast The postal clerks thought the writer must be anxious about its speedy delivery, and said they would do their best to send it along, there being nothing else on it.

—The concert given in Lyceum Hall, Bucksport, last evening, by Miss Wiley, Mrs. Gardner, Mr. Haynes and Mr. Barrows, was largely attended, and very successful. The programme was of considerable length, but the audience insisted on numerous encores, and the fine vocalism of the ladies and gentlemen who took part was thoroughly appreciated.

—Kennebecs Barbers, which has long needed repairs is likely now to be either rebuilt or thoroughly overhauled, as its general rottenness came to light yesterday when the workmen tore up the old sidewalk on the north side to replace the worn planks. The Street Engineers made an examination yesterday afternoon, and found the west span rotten and dangerous, and pronounced it unfit for use. The Mayor called a meeting of the City Government last evening, and it was decided that the bridge should be stripped to-day, when it will be examined by the City Government, who will immediately thereafter meet in City Hall, and decide whether it shall be built with stone abutments. The Mayor was authorized to visit the quarries at Mosquito mountain, and ascertain about getting the requisite granite there for building the abutments, provided it is to be used. There is great need of a good substantial span on the west side, and now seems to be a fitting time to put it up and avoid possible accidents.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL. The jailer at Machias, on entering the debtors' cell in that institution, on Friday, discovered a hole through the brick wall from the adjoining cell. This cell was occupied by A. C. Berry, committed for arson, having been found guilty at the April term of court, but owing to a motion for a new trial, was awaiting the result, expecting a second trial in October. The jailer removed Berry to the strong cell in the basement, and by examination discovered that two one and one-fourth inch iron bars over the window of the cell had been sawed off. In the basement floor one O'Donnell, lately committed from Calais for store-breaking, occupied a cell. Two iron bars of the same size over the window of his room were sawed off. An iron poker about eighteen inches long and one and one half inches square; a long three-cornered file and two flat files, and a case-knife made into a saw, were found in the cells. It is evident the two were working in conjunction, that they had accomplices, and would have made their escape Friday or Saturday night.

All essays and addresses will be followed by discussion on the subjects of the same. The railroad and steamboat lines in the State will sell excursion tickets good for the week of the Association for one fare the round trip.

ODD FELLOWSHIP.

MEETING OF THE GRAND LODGE.

The Grand Lodge of Maine, I. O. O. F., met in Portland Tuesday, the following officers being present:—M. W. Grand Master, O. B. Whitten of Portland; R. W. Deputy Grand Master, F. M. Laughton of Bangor; R. W Grand Master, W. F. Garcelon, of Lewiston; R. W. Grand Secretary, Joshua Davis of Portland; R. W. Grand Treasurer, S. K. Dyer of Portland; R. W. Grand Chaplain, C. H. Blake of Portland; R. W. Grand Representatives, J. H. Nealley of South Berwick, J. W. Sargent of Kennebunk; Worthy Grand Master, C. H. Rich of Portland; W. Grand Master, Israel Hicks of Portland—Prayer was offered by the R. W. Caplain, after which Brothers A. D. Smith, Byron Kimball and W. L. L. Gill were appointed a committee on elections and reported 37 lodges, represented by 130 members. The annual report of the Grand Master shows the order to be in a very flourishing condition, new lodges having been instituted and the old lodges, which have in times past been failing, have begun the work of Odd Fellowship anew.

From the report of the Grand Secretary, Joshua Davis we obtain the following statistics: Number of members, last report, 3,887; initiations during the year, 1,163; admitted by card 166; reinstated 28, total 6,180. Number deceased 24; withdrawn by card 149; suspended 91; expelled 8; total 274, leaving the present membership 4,915, which shows an increase for the past year of 1,028. The relief report shows that 209 members and 28 widowed families in distress, have been relieved; 28 brothers buried and benefits paid for 2,176 weeks' sickness. The amount of relief for brothers and widowed families was $10,365, for education of orphans $180; for burying the dead $1,004.5; total $12,749. The annual receipts amount to $30,050; current expenses $11,172; invested funds $93,218.—The amount received by the Grand Secretary for the year has been $2,824, which was paid the Grand Treasurer. From the report of the Grand Treasurer, S. K. Dyer, we learn that the amount received by him has been expended for the use of the Grand Lodge, and that there remains unexpended, to be carried to the new account, $2,817. The funds of the Grand Lodge now amount to $4,317

After the reference of many matters of importance to the appropriate committees, the Grand Lodge proceeded to the election of officers with the following result; M. W. Grand Master, F M. Laughton; R. W. Grand Warden, B. C. Stone; R W. Grand Secretary, Joshua Davis; R. W. Grand Treasurer, S. K. Dyer; R. W. Grand Representative, Geo. A. Callahan.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That in case of indefinite suspension for the non-payment of dues, the matter of reinstatement shall be left to the discretion of the respective subordinate lodges in which such suspension may take place.

ALONG THE COAST OF MAINE

PENOBSCOT BAY — CASTINE, THE ANCIENT AND BEAUTIFUL — DOWN EGGEMOGGIN REACH—MT. DESERT AND ITS SCENERY—THE LOBSTER FISHERY—STAGNATION IN THE LUMBER TRADE—ETC.

The route of the steamer Lewiston from Portland to Machias presents some of the most attractive scenery and the most interesting historical points on our coast. The beauties of Casco Bay, to be sure, as the steamer leaves and arrives in the night,it by in our dreams, but morning unfolds the glories of Penobscot Bay in all their loveliness. The run from Rockland to Castine lies along the Fox Islands and Long Island, looking into many a quiet cove and shady harbor, and peering round numerous headlands, while the high, wooded hills of Camden notch the western horizon with their picturesque outline.

Castine is ever pleasant to look upon, and, as approached in the morning sunlight, wrapped in molten radiance its regular slope from the rippling shore to the fort-crowned ridge of the peninsula, its soft, green fields set off with white cottages, it seems to enjoy the serene repose to which its old age and ancient activity so well entitle it.

The place has a history of nearly two and a half centuries. It has been held by Indians, French, Dutch and English. For nearly a century the banner of France floated over it, and for nearly a century and a half it was not without a garrison. Its waters have resounded with the thunder of five naval engagements. During the later years of the war of the Revolution it was held by the English who built Fort George on the summit. To dislodge them was the object of the famous "Penobscot Expedit on," fitted out from Boston under Commodore Saltonstall, consisting of forty-three vessels, mounting three hundred and forty guns, and carrying a land force of two thousand men. After two repulses a landing was effected and a foothold secured on the heights; but, during the delay which ensued in discussing the propriety of an assault upon the fort, and in the lack of concert between the land and naval forces, a British fleet appeared, before which our forces made a precipitate and disastrous retreat. Castine was again held by the British during the war of 1812, who repaired and strengthened the fort on the hill. Within a few years, however, the pickaxe and spade have invaded the work and made a serious breach on its eastern face; while, on the water-front of the town, the older fortifications—among them the ancient French fort of Baron de Castin—have almost entirely disappeared.

Years ago, the more youthful enterprise of rising towns on the western shore of the bay diverted much of its trade, and the ambitious little city of Ellsworth, on the east, absorbed its court-house and its rogues, leaving it in comparative isolation. But the beauty of its position, its capacious, island-dotted harbor, its embosomed coves on the opposite shore, the grand sweep of scenery from its crest, its sweet nature air, its scrupulous tidiness and peaceful serenity none can dispute or take away; and, above all, the time-hallowed memories and the old associations in which the town has ripened and mellowed, and which, nestling in the heart of many a wanderer, make him

"Often in the night to up and down
The pleasant streets of that dear old town"

As the steamer sweeps away, the eye sights up the vista of Main street, cutting the town in twain, with elms and chestnuts balancing on either side, in front of venerable homesteads where trim and gallant hearts were nurtured that beat no more, but where memories can never die, among them the brave Williams, who went down in command of the U. S. gunboat, Oneida, in that cruel collision near Yokohama, several years ago, and Liselle, the Christian scholar and gentleman, whose name and fame are so tenderly enshrined in the affections of so many of our readers and of all who knew him.

Bidding a hasty adieu to the ancient town, we turn on Cape Lemor, barren and gray, down the Eggemoggin Reach, to whose beauties, roll it about in the mouth as you will, the name gives no introductory hint. We skirt along the Deer Islands, Little and Great, chassez up Benjamt'scarver and bow to Sedgwick—the n rotest the town that keeps a mile away from, on landing.' Green fields, slopes and wooded shores arrest the eye on either hand, save where upon the massive, high-piled rocks, caught at the proper angle, the monstrous Devil's Head for a minute frowns with his wicked profile. The scenery is full of change. Islands ahead part into smaller islands in passing and close again, and island crests dance in fantastic outline along the glowing horizon, while nearer and nearer the grand old hills of Mt. Desert swell upon the vision.

We reach South West Harbor at the perpendicular hour, when "our good master, king Hiram Abif, has went to call from labor to refreshment" to its romantic scenery, its mountain and ocean airs, the enchanting sail up Lane's Sound, and other attractions, have, for many years, made this a watering-place of considerable note. But, oh, Mr. Underwood! how could you do so? locate that lobster factory right on the landing, by which, as

"Through a purgatory of smells,
Equal to any of Swedenborg's hells,

the visitor is initiated into the felicities of the place? Poor lobsters! When we see so many of these factories in our harbors, our wonder ceases that we seldom or never see those splendid old sea coats that blessed our sight in former days. Greedy fishermen fire scouring all the bays, and by boat loads, at one swoop through the boiling cauldron they exchange their pail ots by wholesale for a tinship! Surely the consumer and consumed are brought a little too near together by this operation for the latter's comfort and chance of growth, and it becomes the proper authorities to look sharply after the enforcement of the "ten inch" law which the impending expunction of this too insome shellfish has recently put upon our State's book.

The hour's sail around and by the base of the mountains to Bar Harbor needs no description for those who have enjoyed it. It is the clumsy examination of the boldest and grandest scenery on our coast, among which the penens of the first artists of the land have found enth usiastic employment, and felicitous pens have wrought vivid pictures in words. It seems as if Terra, ere recognizing the supremacy of Neptune on his domain, had here made a supreme effort in throwing up these huge granite outposts to dispute the restless surge and swell of ocean. As we glide along hills rise behind hills, ranges open and deep valleys yawn, and mountain heads change shape and place like the cumulous clouds of a summer eve.

Thunder Cove, Spouting Horn and the pictured Schooner are the most noticeable items which diversify the hard and rugged waterline of the mountains, and introduce to the smoother waters and more hospitable shores of Bar Harbor. Sixteen years ago this was unknown as a watering-place, and we presume we were first to put in print, upon the testimony of connoisseurs, a brief summary of its attractions. Since then it has grown in popular favor. Uncle Tobias' hum bid residence—the Agamont—which was then open and ample for the infrequent sojourner, has taken on several enlargements, and a French roof, while his son preside in other hotels among the twelve or fifteen that have sprung up or been improv ed here. One of these hostelries honors the name of St. Sawior, which was given the locality by a settlement of Jesuits before Pilgrim feet touched Plymouth rock. There are also numerous private cottages, the most conspicuous among them for jaunty and airy elegance belonging to our townsman Seazle, who that of Prentiss, on a plateau under the shadow of the mountains, reveals in its unfinished state the proportions and architecture of a villa.

Bar Harbor has attained such dimensions as to assure its permanency as a watering-place. The present season is not the most propitious for seaside and mountain resorts, but the numerous yachts in the harbor, the rush of people to the landing to greet new-comers, and the salvo of rivets and small arms to welcome the steamer, give evidence of considerable life. Two years ago, the steamer landed here at one trip one hundred and eighty passengers.

Still eastward on, the scene stretches up the waters of Frenchman's bay, shimmering in the dreamy haze of the summer afternoon, enclosing with its verdurous shores Sullivan and Gouldsboro—localities noted for the natural beauty of their environment. Narraguagus bay with its handsome landing, Mocosebec reach with another of those fragrant lobster-factory messages which Jonesport presents to the visitor at its excellent landing, Englishman's bay, with Tune and Schoodic mountains in the distance inland, diversify the landscape, and the steamer, after skirting by daylight more than half of Maine's extensive sea-coast, winds up its day's work among the pleasant islands of Machias bay,

We may allude in passing to the painful evidences of the general paralysis of business. Although lumber is the staple of enterprise of most of these flown-east ports, we have scarcely met with a lumber laden vessel, while along the harbors vessels swing idly at their anchors, and near the steamer's dock at Machiasport, of the eleven vessels lying at the wharves, piled high with pine shippers and other lumber from the Whitneyville mills, nine are deserted, most of them with sails unbent, their captains and crews having literally "gone to grass," which promises better returns. A steaming which tows crafts from the two enterprising Mach ases, pleasantly situated four miles up the river, is also apparently abandoned its occupation for the present having gone. Of the coast, however, it is pleasant to note that the fish are biting well and fishermen are getting fine fares.

The people along this route seem to appreciate, as well they may, the excellent facilities afforded by the staunch Lewiston for a bi-weekly communication with the west. In seasons of fog and strong head winds it is difficult navigation, and the surprising regularity of the steamer's trips on this long route and fortunate exemption from casualty are in a great degree attributable to Capt. Deering and Pilot Hall, who know the road by heart. Freeman, the genial clerk, and Shergold Wor-ster—formerly on the City of Richmond—whose resources never fail when crowds are thrown upon his hands, and the other officers back up the pleasant testimony of a passenger that it is one of the best officered boats afloat.

NEW MUSIC

We have received from the well known and popular publishing house of Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, the following fine pieces of music: Love In Youth; When the Ship comes Home; Rosabella; The Missing Boat, I'm a Fairy Free and Light; There is no harm in Kissing, Birdie Rest a Little Longer, Adieu Dear Home, Hearts Wishes; May Blossom, Marzeka Brilliant; Choppin's Most Popular Mazurka, Fire Alarm (Galop, Dauntless Waltz; The Little Stars, or God is Love.

The German Government remains exceedingly solicitous concerning the recognition of the Spanish Republic by the great Powers of Europe. Kaiser Wilhelm is now in communication with Kaiser Franz Joseph, of Austria, on the subject. This must be very consoling to the cause of the European Democracy. Quite different from the policy which was manifested in Berlin and Vienna in 1848.

Says an article on "Our Houses," the secret we suggest in the plenishing of a house or room, of giving this sense of completeness and satisfaction, is the expression by every different part of some leading idea—whether that be of a place for work, for rest, for easy home comfort or for sensuous luxury. The farm-keeping room suggested to us, unconsciously, if it though we might have been, rest after honest labor, the calm of decent old age; the vulgar provincial parlor or the drawing-room of the man of no taste speaks of nouh ng but vanity and its ignorant abuse. We remember a certain hut in the Alleghany mountains, where the walls were of unplaned pine boards with wide chinks between, and the furniture that of the poorest poor, where an odd drapery of home-woven white muslin, over the walls, and curtains of white muslin, at the windows gave a very peculiar, but harmonious impression on the mind of quiet and purity. To all home-makers out of unfurnished houses we would say, Give your body of rooms some sort of ogre. If you have any great work of taste to enter in and possess a room, give the room up to it. Make hangings, seats and ornaments pay homage to it—retire as far as possible out of sight. Do not make the air of your sitting-room an easy walk for gladiators or confuse your guest at dinner and heat your loins with too baked Venuses. If you have little money, but great ambition for genteel appearance, abjure shams. Turn your back on imitation china made by yourself, on cheap chintzes that fade, and dried and painted grasses that are the rougest ghosts of summer. In short, take warning by Nature, whose tableaux are each complete in itself, and who are at all ilk real.

SEALED ORDERS.

BY H. H.

When ship with "orders sealed" sails out to sea,
Men eager crowd the wharves and reverent gaze
Upon their faces whose brave spirits raise
No question of the unknown voyage to be
Of deadly peril. Benedictions free,
And prayers and tears are given, and the days
Counted till other ships, on homeward ways,
May bring back message of her destiny.
Yet, all the time, life's coming sea is white
With sailing sails which no man reads or stays
By his own will, for roughest day or night,
Brave, helpless crews, with captain out of sight,
Harbor unknown, voyage of long delays,
They meet no other ships on homeward ways!

V.

From William Andros, M. D., to the Chief of Police, San Francisco.

"20 RUE CAUMARTIN, PARIS.

MY DEAR C—— I am almost tempted to turn detective, and, if my patients fail me, shall look to you for a position on the force, although I dare say I should require in such a profession more patience than ever. See the joke? But in earnest, I have been in Paris nearly a month. I have something to tell you of a rather extraordinary nature, and it may happen that I shall need your co-operation, as I now ask your attention.

"Possibly, were you to make a trip to Paris, you would never think of visiting Jardin Mabille. I did, however, on Sunday evening last, and it may be that this breaking of the Christian Sabbath will prove the means of making you a moving power in a story which is, at all events, growing hourly more interesting to me. I was sitting at one of the many little tables set everywhere throughout the garden, drinking a cup of coffee and smoking a cigar, when there sat down at the opposite side a gentleman whose face seemed so familiar to me that my first impression was to offer him my hand. But a moment's reflection convinced me that he was a stranger, although there remained the idea that I had seen the face somewhere before. I have no doubt that while hesitating about the matter I was at the same time staring rudely, for the gentleman, I found, was glancing somewhat savagely at me over the top of his newspaper. There was something more than displeasure, though, I thought, in the quick shifting glances of his bright, black eyes. There was suspicion, if not fear. But fear of what? I was now sure that we had never met before. Handsome eyes they were, too, with magnificently curved eyebrows, but with a very perceptible devil peeping out of them. The stranger drank his absinthe, laid down his paper with a scowl in those same black eyes, and left, not, however, before I had seen that a [illegible] oval he wore a pin of odd make—a serpent in writhing convolutions, it seemed. My eyes are some of the best, and yet I know perfectly that it was an adder biting at a file, although, as I say, I did not see this, and although I am sure I had never set eyes on the pin before. You must frequently have been aware of such psychological phenomena yourself. I puzzled over the matter some little time, but without arriving at any satisfactory conclusion.

"Do you remember my calling on you one afternoon, with a skull, tooth, and tress of hair found by some workmen near the old International Hotel, while clearing the route of Montgomery avenue? The hair is still at the O—— Hotel, but the skull and tooth I have with me. The skull I intended for Guy's Hospital, London, and the tooth for M. Lemercier, the famous French dentist, of whom, very possibly, you have never heard. I came direct to Havre by the Ville de Paris, thence to Paris—chiefly to see my little niece Lu, who is here at school—leaving my London visit for a future time. The reason of my taking all this trouble about a tooth is that Lemercier—who, by the by, is an old chum of mine—boasts about his being the only dentist living who successfully fills teeth with platinum, and yet here was one picked up in San Francisco filled with this material, and in a [illegible] state of preservation, although most likely it had been subjected to much hard usage. The chances were ten thousand to one against its being a specimen of his handiwork. And now read what my quizzing him on the fact of having a rival has led to.

"With the tooth in my waistcoat pocket, I called on Lemercier last evening, and after he had got over his surprise at seeing me, and the conversation had settled down into something like freedom, I brought up the subject of the tooth.

"'For all I know,' said I, 'there may be a [illegible], but, at any rate, here is the evidence that there is another dentist than yourself who uses platinum as a filling.' With this I produced the tooth, and here I should tell you that it is not only filled with platinum, but its nearest neighbor must have been filled through the one found, for from the side there projects a spur or spike of platinum that must have been driven into the second tooth through the first.

"Lemercier took the tooth, turned it over in his fingers, and then examined it with a powerful magnifying glass. 'Yes,' said he, 'I thought so. I fill this one little tooth—these two little tooth—eight—mine own self.'

"'Good God!' cried I, starting up. 'Are you sure of that?' That tooth was found in California.'

"'I have not,' said Lemercier, 'if the tooth were found in the Red Sea. I fill it.'

"For the moment I could hardly speak—[illegible] I told him the story of its discovery, and that of the skull. Lemercier looked grave. 'I did not think she would become an [illegible],' said he. 'You may be surprise how I should remember the filling of a certain tooth he continued, but you will see I fill at the same time one other tooth through these. Now that I remember distinctly too, and remember do I, too, that it was in the head of a fair English mees, who, though I must have pained her much, said no one word.'

"Very different from the ordinary run of women,' I could not help remarking.

"She was,' said Lemercier. 'She had that great blessing of being born dumb.'

"Lord, how the whole thing flashed across my mind! Just call at the O—— Hotel and ask B——, the clerk, to tell you the story he told me about a Mr. and Mrs. Duplessis, who staid there in September or October last. As there is a lot of [illegible] above us, I believe the little dumb girl who was a guest there, who did not come back with her husband the second night, and the little dumb English 'mees' who was a patient of Lemercier's, are one and the same; and that Mr. Duplessis and the stranger I saw at the Jardin Mabille on Sunday are one and the same, too. The question was, what had become of her? You will, of course, say that I am rashly jumping at conclusions, but to me it is only another [illegible] that Providence and not chance [illegible] the world.

"With whom did you remember this little [illegible] came?' I asked. 'I am somewhat interested in this matter.'

"She came with one of the ladies of Madame Ganil's [illegible]. Wait a moment, and I will give you the address and date.' He left the room and I returned in a few minutes with a slip of paper on which was written:

"MOLLE. IDA GILMORE,
"Chez Madame Ganil,
"[illegible] Boulevard Sevastopol."

And here I find I must conclude this lengthy scrawl, but by the next mail I will send you the result of my visit to Mme. Ganil. Wishing you, etc., I remain, etc.

"WM. ANDROS."

VI.

From William Andros, M. D., to the Chief of Police, San Francisco.

"20 RUE CAUMARTIN, PARIS.

MY DEAR C—— As I promised in my last of the 5th, I am going to trouble you with an account of my call on Madame Ganil. Its result, I am sorry to say, has not surprised me. I had my little niece Lucy for an interpreter, as I am rather shaky in what was once almost a mother tongue to me. I rang the bell of the gloomy-looking house, where a great deal of politesse and a very little of anything else is taught, and was admitted by a grim looking man, and shown into a grim looking room adorned with specimens of the pupils' handiwork in the way of hideous and grim-looking crayon sketches.

"Madame Ganil, a pleasant-looking little woman of any age from thirty to fifty, soon made her appearance, holding my card in her small bony hand.

"'Ah, I have the honor of addressing Dr. Andros, the famous American physician of whom I have heard so much? What an angelic child!'

"This last sentence cleared away my bewilderment. She evidently thought Lu to be a prospective pupil, and hence the pleasant fiction of my fame. I did not at that moment attempt to undeceive her on either point, but with Lu's help managed to let her know that I had come principally to inquire for a Miss Ida Gilmore, who had been a pupil there.

"'Monsieur is some relation of the pauvre enfant?' said Mme. Ganil, with an odd look at me.

"'I kicked Lu's trim little bottine under the chair, and answered, 'Yes, I—I am her uncle.'

"'Indeed,' said Mme. Ganil, 'I had no idea she had an uncle. She never spoke of one.'

"'For the simple reason that she never knew she had one—living,' said Dr. Andros, the liar, bold as brass. 'I have been so long in America that I question whether any relative of mine except this child——'

"'Her cousin?' interjected the Ganil, quick as lightning.

"'Her cousin,' assented Dr. Andros just as quickly—'was aware of my being alive.'

"'Dans ce cas,' said Madame Ganil, 'I regret to inform you that your niece is dead.'

"'Her loving uncle put his pocket-handkerchief to his eyes, while little Lu looked sufficiently startled at the inexplicable style of the conversation to aid in the deception wonderfully.

"'Of course,' said Madame Ganil the artful, 'you know that the chere petite Ida was hopelessly deaf?'

"'Pardon, Madame, dumb, you mean,' said Dr. Andros, the sly.

"'Dumb, of course, I mean,' cried the Ganil. 'What an old piece of forgetfulness I am. Well, her friends in England—she was brought here by a lady, a Madame Gelmore——'

"'My only sister,' said I, desperately.

"'Ah!' said Madame Ganil, 'she did not resemble you. As I remarked, Madame Gelmore did not wish her to go to an asylum, however good, and so brought her to me, hoping that the gentle discipline and tender surveillance for which this establishment has a humble reputation, would do somewhat toward lightening the toil of her studies in the French language, for which she had a particular predilection. But doubtless Monsieur has heard all this before.'

"'Partly,' said I; 'but will Madame charm me by proceeding?'

"Madame bowed, and went on: 'When she had been a loved and loving inmate of this quiet establishment for two years, and was then 17 years of age, her father and mother both died——'

"'That was last summer,' I interrupted. (You see I was guessing with a vengeance—This time again, fortune or Providence rather, favored me.)

"'As late in the summer,' said Madame—'died, as I said, leaving her as we supposed' (with an apologetic duck toward me), 'entirely friendless and unprotected. At that time, August, the Vicomte Montmarte, a well known and most estimable gentilhomme, who had met her at the house of Madam Lefevre, mother of one of my dearest pupils, honored her with the offer of his hand and title.'

"'He did not marry a penniless wife,' I said, still following up my desperate plan. 'Ida must have had some money of her own.'

"Madame gave me another queer look, but hiding it with a polite smile, almost instantly added:

"'Monsieur, as one of the family, must certainly be aware that the dot of Mademoiselle Gelmore was by no means of the largest. Monsieur as surely would not impute motives of a mercenary character to the Vicomte Montmarte.'

"'Most assuredly not,' said I, 'the vicomte has my most profound consideration. Will madame tell me: Is not the vicomte a tall, handsome man, with a full black beard, black eyes, and particularly arched eyebrows?'

"Talk about the queer look in Madame Ganil's eyes at first!—that was nothing to the anxious, and, it seemed to me, frightened face she turned to me to ask, 'Have you seen my—the vicomte here—in Paris?'

"Diamond cut diamond, eh! 'No, Madame,' I replied.

"'And yet you have described him?'

The Official Report (N. Y.) shows that the ratio of the number of policies upon which claims were paid in all companies has advanced from 10.9 per thousand in 1872, to 11.9 in 1873. In the former year the American Popular lost 4.7, and in the latter 3.7 per thousand.

The rate of death claims and of expenses to total income, and to total amount at risk, increasing rather than diminishing in the case of the aggregate companies, being in both years very large, contrast strongly with the low ratio of this Company and its growing prosperity. In the light of these facts, its low premium rates are more than justified in a practical sense, as, in a scientific view, they are both equitable and secure.

Before the era of inflation in life insurance, the old-plan companies are shown by the reports to have done a comparatively small business, and it was doubtless, with the large premiums they required, comparatively safe. Some, commencing later, "pushed business" from the first, with a vehemence that created amazement, and already, in common with the older companies, are beginning to experience the reaction that must have been expected from the abnormal and indiscreet inflation.

The comparatively small (but really large for the kind) number of policies issued by this Company is one of the best evidences of its security—the right adherence to well established scientific principles, in the rating of risks, giving low premiums only to superior lives, and thus making the Company attractive to few others. It would surprise those not acquainted with the working of our plan, to know the number of applications received and the amount of labor and care expended in their examination and rating, all of which is just so much to the advantage of superior risks.

It will also be noticed that large business is not a guarantee of safety, for if the mortality is high, indicating a want of care or skill in selection, the larger the business, the more safety is imperiled, and while small business may not show care, large business does show carelessness. We could have shown a very large business from the start if we had been indifferent to the kind. But the kind is the question, and more work is necessary in doing the amount of our kind of business than would do four times as much that would be unprofitable to both the assured and to the Company.

The increase of our business during the past year, is as wholesome and encouraging as our losses are small.

Our ratio of increase has been
